

Why should you consider the vitamins and herbs we use?

The Quality

We have been using the same primary supplier for our entire history of over 30 years and know from experience that they truly have the highest quality in the world consistently. With over 500 vitamins and herbs, where should you start?

Someone that is new to the natural approach can easily become overwhelmed with the many choices available. Let us simplify it for you. There are products designed to support each major body system which are called key products. Though you can purchase anything you like, if you start with the key products you will likely be using something that supports that system well. The key products are listed here.
